MY WANDERING MAN

Is lost in the journey. Has Hobo packs for each season And staghorn ferns In a minivan.

Wants a perfect life And an old home, In some southern town, with gardens to plant and weeds to pull.

Is restless.

Hiding his heart behind a smile, Hoping to heal again and Seeking forgiveness.

Plays the long game,

In stoic repose.

Secretly wants to fly free

Like the pelicans above the beach.